

Orbital Extending Dining Table By Calligaris

VOYAGER

“Designed by Pininfarina. The Orbital table has always been in a league of its own in terms of pristine polish and contemporary cool”

The Orbital table has always been in a league of its own in terms of pristine polish and contemporary cool; this revamped version has preserved its core identity while further enhancing its iconic stylishness. The new Orbital stems from a quest to create a streamlined shape despite the widening of the top and an extremely light and contemporary appearance has been successfully achieved while preserving the elegant oval form. Furthermore, this item can now be personalised with panels in various different materials to be placed on the frame, elevating the product even further and making it suitable for the most sophisticated setting.

I Ingenuity

The Company's heritage includes constant experimentation with materials, mechanisms, technical and implementation solutions, and an original idea of "responsive design", a way of designing and creating home furnishings through products that can adapt to multiple needs and desires, with ease and elegance.

This is what Calligaris calls ingenuity.

Extendable tables, configurable systems, technology in development, and versatile and functional solutions help people get the best out of their living space, meeting everyday needs.

I Orbital

Calligaris crossed the finish line of a century of technological and stylistic evolution by continuing its collaboration with one of the world's most famous designers: Pininfarina. In 2011, this collaboration gave life to the Orbital extendable table that became an icon of contemporary design, a unique summary of cutting-edge technology and beauty that knows how to go beyond the trends.

The new Orbital table, created by Pininfarina to celebrate Calligaris' 100th anniversary, pushed the passion for innovation, harmony, and beauty even further, joining the strengths of the two historical Italian Companies to create a project that – inspired by the innovative extension mechanism of the original design – makes the elliptical shape of the glass or ceramic top even more harmonious, combining it with a new base, modernized without losing its winning aesthetics and functional features.

The new base can be customized with covers in various finishes and textures to match any interior environment style: from the elegant reflections in bronze to the refined elegance of matte black, the prestige of leather, and the warmth of wood.

With its fluid design, Orbital is a masterpiece and an expression of ingenuity, technological research, a refined choice of materials, and typical Italian harmony, capable of conveying everlasting emotions and values.
